[Cohasset, Mass.] The writer is sending the circular with a goodly number of names "for Cohasset, which is entire new ground," with very scanty knowledge of the Anti-Slavery issue. There is opposition from retired sea-captains and mackerel vessel owners. The Unitarian minister preaches well and shows considerable moral courage "for a minister." I. S. Smith of Hingham lectured before the Lyceum here on Milton, with reference to present day conditions. The writer thinks that Garrison's paper has not suffered from his illness, but has been fully as "spicy." The writer would like to talk with the addressee about the "hanging matter on board Somers". Does not value the opinio [illegible] a court martial highly, "for many of the officers on b[illegible] naval vessels, have as little

«Concord, (Mass.)» Deals with the attempted arrest, by U. S. officers, of Franklin B. Sanborn of Concord for refusing to obey the summons to appear before the Harper's Ferry Investigating Committee. "One of the officers told the Deputy Sheriff that he had been in all kinds of mobs and in all kinds of danger, but he never felt in such fear before - Those manacled hands which he was obliged to hold up over the heads of the crowd on account of the pain caused by the handcuffs being too tight aroused the crowd to great indignation."
